There is an old fable that tells of a fish that was never happy.

Always there was something to complain about. Mostly the fish complained because he had only two eyes. He reasoned that he should have eyes all over his body, so that he could see danger approaching from any direction and be able to escape.

Finally, his wish was granted, and he developed eyes all over his body. But then things were worse than ever because he saw danger everywhere, and he died of fright.

Many people are like that fish. They are always worrying about what might happen. They cry about the fact that they cannot see the future, and they are fearful of all the things that may happen tomorrow.

Friend, if you could see everything in your future, you might also die of fright. The thing to do is pray and trust God to care for you and give you what is best. Paul penned, "Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God" (Philippians 4:6). —David Sain
